

Master and PhD positions in Advanced X-ray imaging

FAU

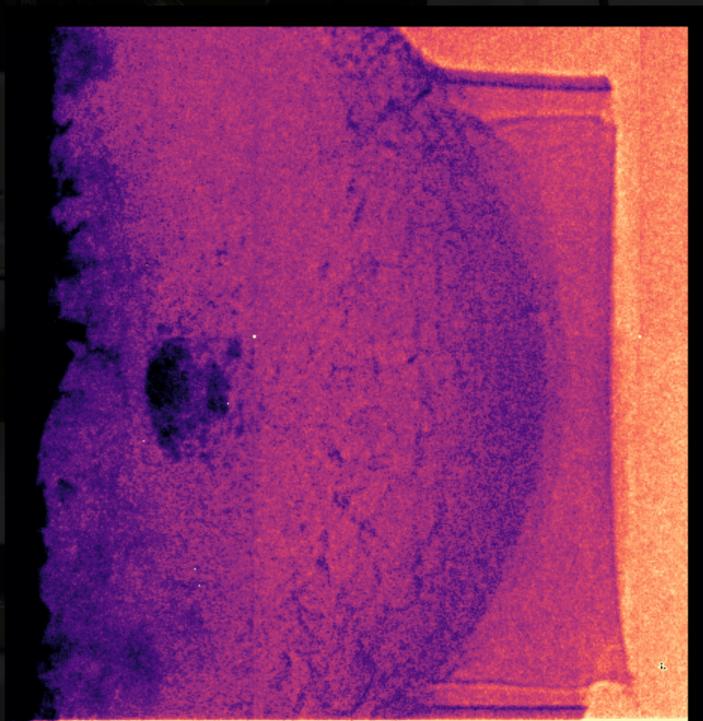

Develop X-ray phase-contrast imaging to for medical physics, material studies or fusion science

You work in the stimulating international environment of ECAP and conduct experiments at research facilities such as the European XFEL, or locally at the ECAP Laboratory providing you with ideal conditions for pursuing your master or PhD thesis.

Successful PhD applicants will have access to fully funded positions available in the X-ray imaging group.

The positions have an application due date of April 30th, 2026 and is open until filled. Possible starting dates are negotiable.

A laboratory-created shock wave impacting a molecular cloud

Interested?

Contact s.funk@fau.de for further information